At yesterday’s meeting of the Committee of the Whole, the Board heard the University’s capital planning process and facility goals from the Amherst, Dartmouth and Worcester campuses. The University is striving to meet its education, research and service obligations to the Commonwealth. We will need investments from the Commonwealth, the federal government and the private sector.

Chair Karam reported on the University’s development as a research and technology powerhouse. We have created a Science and Technology Task Force which met yesterday for the first time. The Task Force has been created to maximize the impact of that experience and knowledge and will report to us on its initial activities later in the meeting.

The Development Committee met yesterday under the new leadership of Trustee O’Shea. Chair Karam thanked Trustee Mahoney for his leadership on this Committee for the last several years.

The Board looks forward to assisting President Wilson and the Chancellors in all of their endeavors.

Mr. Daniel Clawson, President of the Massachusetts Society of Professors first thanked the Board, Chancellor Lombardi and President Wilson for supporting the increase of faculty on campus. We also need to offer a first rate education to all students including working class students and students of color.

Ms. Kathy Rhines, President of the Professional Staff Union, reported on the strained relationship across the University system. Last Wednesday, an election was held, 1190

Trustee Louis stated that she is the only Black woman on the Board and faces on a daily basis, her race and gender.

She has also discovered the lack of the same social economic bracket as herself. The Trustees have an obligation to the citizens of Massachusetts to support diversity and that privatizing the University is in direct contradiction to the University’s mission.

A round of applause followed Trustee Louis’ remarks.

Students in the audience then sang a song of freedom.

He thanked Trustee Heather Makrez for her work with hurricane relief organizing UMASS KAREs that has a goal to raise $50,000 and the work with Habitat for Humanity to build a house in the affected area.

President Wilson reported that the $240 million supplemental state budget released by the Senate Ways and Means Committee contains $9 million in endowment and capital matching funds for the University. The House and Senate have both approved economic stimulus that contain roles and funding for the University. The bill has to be reconciled in conference Committee which could happen this week.
