Trustee Buonomo asked for information on the cost variance between estimated and actual costs moving forward. Chairman Thomas asked if the Governor’s budget included an extension of the capital bond bill. Chair Woolridge noted the $600 million funding gap for approved projects.

Trustee Mullan commended the improvement of the process. He also commented on several areas: the importance of advocacy for dedicated revenue to higher education capital projects; with regard to the Amherst chiller project, the need for an accompanying statement as to why the University was undertaking the project and not the state; the need for two distinct lists for capital projects, a preliminary planning list and an approved projects list; and the need for more progress on a fiscally constrained capital plan.

Trustee Carpman asked if the 10 percent variance threshold was an industry standard and if deferred maintenance should be approximately 10 percent of the total spend.
